MARRIAGE BY WHOLESALE .- On the 1st of Oc-MARNIAGE BY WHOLESALE.—On the 1st of October, a ceremony, as rare as it was interesting, took place at the honse of Jesse Chapman, Esq., of Waterford, Oakland county, Michigan. His four sons, of ages between 20 and 20, and living in different parts of the State, all made their appearance at the paternal mansion with a lady accompaniment, and were followed by a clergyman who went to work and joined the whole quatrain in the bonds of matrimony, beginning at the eldest and leaving off at the least of age. After a friendly what with the "old folks at home" the boys and girls started off on their wedding tour. Such prostarted off on their wedding tour. Such proceedings are rare.

The Bride of Horn Island. A peculiarly strange and romantic little island is that yeleped Horn, situated in the Gulf of Mex-ico, about twelve or fourteen miles from Pascagoula. On this island, surrounded by the waters, old Harry Waters lives and flourishes with his family. Harry, however, is not the hero of our talo so much as Harriot, his daughter, is onr hero-

Harriot is a beauty without paint—one of nature's own unsophisticated children. Of art, science, and philosophy she knows no more than did the ancient daughters of the Pascagonlas, and the ancient daughters of the Pascagonlas, and the woman who had thus unscrupulously avowed har daring aid to a rebel, and the cheat she put upon the property of the pascagonlas and the cheat she put upon the property of the pascagonlas and the cheat she put upon the pascagonlas are the pascagonlas and the cheat she put upon the pascagonlas are the pascagonlas the ancient daughters of the l'ascagonias, and to the rigid rules of fashion she is even less a slave than they were. Itoaming around the island, and swimming and fishing in the blue waters of the Gulf, were her constant pastimes; and if "beauty nnadorned" be indeed most adorned, her adorn-ments were certainly of a perfect order. Her held ments were certainly of a perfect order. Her hair, innocent of comb, spread over her sun-blowned shoulders like a mantle, and no other garment did she wear save one loose robe of unbleached cot-With the gaudy stroamers of artistic vani-

she was wholly unacquainted. They were to her like the stars, things of beauty, far, far beyond her island world, and she could not comprehend that the master was wanted at the cabin, or that bears ago, when Harriot unexpectedly became a bride.

It so happened that a jolly old wag, belonging to this city, with a plethoric parse and an ample corporation, while cruising at midsummer for the benefit of his health and the enjoyment of fresh fish and oysters, turned his prow Horn Islandward.

He had with him, in the capacity of cook, sailor, and servant generally, a "breth of a boy," with a most persuasive brogue; and as he stayed on the island several days, his Patrick and old Harry's Harriot became quite partial to each other. Now, as our friend, the wag, had plenty of whisky, this for him served as an open sesame to the ancient Harry's good graces, and the timo passed pleasantly enough, being rendered golden by tender and spiritual sympathies. Each day the wag would get up a foot race; he entering Patrick, and the racers. These races were of a somewhat amover seen as turned up between the betters and the racers. At length Harry began to suspect that Harriot and l'attrick were getting over fond, so one morning he paraded all his implements of war on the land she could and l'attrick were getting over fond, so one morning he paraded all his implements of war on the lable of his tenement, and summoned the lovers to appear in his presence. They came; and Patrick, when he saw the fearful array of weapons, and the star chamber countenance of the paternal judge, trembled from head to foot, and his heart failed within him.

when they could do so with impunity.

On the occasion of an exenssion from the British camp at Augusta, a party of Tories penetrated into the interior, and having savagely murdered? Colonel Dooly in bed, in his own house, they proceeded up the country for the purpose of commisting further atrocities. On their way, a detachment of five of the party diverged to the east, and crossed Broad river, to make discoveries about the neighborhood, and pay a visit to their old acquaintance Nancy Hart. On reaching her cabin, they eatered it unceremoniously, receiving from her no welcome but a scowl; and informed her they had come to know the truth of a story current respecting her, that she had secreted a noted rebel, from a company of King's men who were pursuing him, and who, but for her aid, would have caught and hang him. Nancy unloubtedly avowed her agency in the distinction of the present year, the mer chart marine of England numbered 25,335 sailing vessels, of 3,942,493 tons burthen, in all 25,550 vessels, of 4,245,730 tons burthen. But the merchant marine of more than four millions and a laft tons burthen, of which about 3,000 are steamers (1,800 of them being ocean steamers). What a formidable maval force may be created out of the elippers and enormous steamers of such a merchant marine—a marine better adapted than that of any other nation whatever to war purposes. For this reason it is unwise to estimate the maratime force of the United States by the number of their regular naval fleet. and who, but for heraid, would have caught and hang him. Nancy un loubtedly avowed her agency in the fugitive's escape. She told them she had hist heard the tramp of a horse rapidly appreaching, and had seen a horseman coming towards hereabin. As he came nearer, she knew him to be a Whig, and flying from pursuit. She lets down the bars, a few steps from her cabin, and motioned him to enter, to pass through both doors, front and rear, of her singled roomed house; to take the swamp, and secure himself as well as he could. She then put up the bars, entered her cabin, closed the doors, and went about her business. Presently some Tories rode up to the bars, and called out some Tories rode up to the bars, and called out boisterously to her. She muffled her head and face, and opening the door, inquired why they dis-turbed a sick, lone woman. They said they had trueed a man they wanted to catch, near her house; and asked it any one on horseback had passed that way. She answered no, but said she saw some-body on a sorrel horse turn ont of the path into the woods some two or three hundred yards back. "That must be the fellow," said the Tories; and asking the directions as to the way he took, they turned about and went off. "Well fooled!" said Nancy, "in an opposite course to that of my Whig boy; when, if they had not been so lefty-minded, but had looked on the ground inside the bars, they would have seen his horso's tracks up to that door, as plain as you can see the tracks on this here floor,

Old Harry, Harriot and Patrick were all startled by the theatrical and earnest manner in which Peter delivered hluself, and after certain explanations were made, the case was submitted to the fair one herself.

She innocently observed that if she had to get married she would as soon have Peter as anybody. The recent elections in New York and Massachusetts have demonstrated the will and ability of the American party to put down the Freesoil organization. There is, then, no necessity to seek out the individual opinions of men in office, and to endeavor to build up a new party, but we should go to the fountain of political power—to the electors, to the people—and there we find these questions already answered, for we find the American party already in the field against black Republicanism, battling nobly and successfully on the side of the Union and of justice to the South.

The election yesterday passed off quietly. The results a glorious triumph. For several days the Abolition paper heralded that Wilson, Waughop, and Van Ilort were the proper men to vote for. Meeting of the Fire Department.

We understand that at a regular meeting of the Fire Department, on Saturday night, Mr. Sim Watking regional his post as Chief Marshal of The result of the election in this State, yesterday, was a signal and marked triumph for the Demogracy. They have carried live out of the six Senators chosen this year, and will have an undenbted majority in the House of Assembly.—The result is attributable to causes which are opreceiving any substantial strongth from its friends, but rather treachery and opposition, they have fallen under the burden.

The Democracy of this State are greatly rejoieed, as they have reason to be, in the extent and completeness of their success in yesterday's election, having even exceeded all reasonable expectations. The contest being limited to legislative and county officers, with no great question of political policy at issue, the Whigs manifested great indifference, many of them not voting at all, and some even voting against their own party in consequence of local considerations, while the opposition was united and zealous in supporting their own candidates. They have consequently made large gains over their previous majority in the Legislature, which will secure for them one if not two United States Senators, to be elected five of the new Senators, in which case the Senate will be composed of 12 Democrats, 5 Whigs and 3 Americans. posed of 12 Democrats, 5 Whigs and 3 Americans. The liouse, from present data, will be composed of 5. Democrats, 16 Whigs, 6 Americans, and 1 temperance man. This is certainly a large gain over their last year's majority, which amounted to two in the Schate and twelve in the House.

We call the attention of all persons in search of fancy goods to the advertisement of Mr. II. S. Moore, assignee.

The New York Election.—The contest yesterday was, throughout the State, a sort of "free fight," in which the electors took part, without being much constrained by past political affinities.

During the day (Monday) the Government lifeboat at Sheboygan was manned by two sailors and seven citizens of the place, and came down to the rescue. They were compelled to make ten trips before they could get off the last survivors. The last trip was made about 4 o'clock Tuesday morn-ing, the gallant men who manned the beat having repeated their effort at intervals all Monday night. They would go out, and if the boat filled they would return, bail it out, get rested and warmed, and "try it again." Such noble heroism should not pass unrewarded, and we doubt not the gallant men will be well remembered.

They were appropriated by some of the inhabitants, and the destitute seamen were obliged to hunt them and take them from the thieves by force. One of the engineers got out a search warrant, and recovered most of the plunder. The eargo was fast coming ashore, but upon such a long extent of coast that it was impossible to keep people from stealing barrels of boef and flour

Laughlin, at Doniphan, Kansas Territory—his successful resistance, and the killing of his antagonist. The affair occurred abont sunrise on the 31st. On that day, Samuel Collins, who was, it seems, Colonel of one of the regiments of the "Kunsas Légion," an exposition of which had been made by Mr. Langhlin—dotermined to force him to make a retraction, or to mined to force him to make a retraction, or to kill him. With this determination, he and some twelve other of his friends proceeded to seek out Mr. Langhlin, and demanded an unqualified re-traction of his recent statements. This he re-fused to do, and Collins immediately snapped his gan at him, and then fired at him, but fortunately the weapon was turned aside by a spectator. Langhlin then drew a revolver and shot and killed him. Mr. L. was dangerously burt in the conflict

No very poetical experience, the reader may exclaim—but we are telling the story as Charley herself tells it, and she alone is to blame if she has made her experience of too prosaic a character.

After detailing her adventures as above to the Recorder, she appealed to that worthy functionary's gallantry to "let her off easy."

The Recorder said that there was no complaint against her for any impropriety of conduct. As to dress that was altogether a matter of taste, especially among the "strong-minded" women of the North, and as she had no female apparel, he was since that he would not force her to take off what she had—although she was "sailing under false colors." He, however, advised her to go back to her own sex as soon as possible, and having so advised he bade her "God speed."

She thanked him and left; but before going, she told something more of her experience to a sympathetic "searcher of the truth," who happened to be present.

The weapon was turned aside by a spectator. Langhlin then drew a revolver and shot and killed him. Mr. L. was dangerously hurt in the conflict of him. The Best! The Very Best!!

A NY PERSONS WHO HAVE tried the articles for sale by others, and been disappointed in their expectations, have decidedly asserted that J. Cristadoro's Excelsior Liquid Hair lye is not only the best preparation for dyeing the Hair, but that the others which have been so greatly landed bear no comparison whatever to his.

J. Cristadoro's Excelsior Liquid Hair Dye will lavariably perform what it promites; which no other dyes will do; the black it produces is not a dead, glittering color, but beautiful and life-like the brown and auburn assimilate so nearly with the colors of nature that it is impossible to detect the presence of a dye.

It can be applied by any one, without any previous preparation of the hair, and with the smallest amount of trouble, and is so fixed and permanent in its nature that nothing will affect or cause it to fade. For sale wholesale and retail by

What is the Use

Of any one paying a high price for an article when the same thing can be had for a less price, and at the same time as good in every respect, (and better in some), as he high priced "article." Carpenter & Swymmer make 'Ambrotypes" for $2 that will compare with the best in he city. For brilliance of tone and finlsh, they are nn equalled. Another great item is, they are put up with only one glass, so that you need not have your pockets double lined to ensure its safety, if you should wish to carry it three squares. The double glass is of itself mothing; it adds no beauty to the picture—makes it uone ciess iiable to damage, and is only a feeble breast

[From the Troy Whig, Nov. 5.] A LADY WHO WAS PRESENT AT THE BATTLE OF SARATOGA.—Mrs. Margaret Martin, who is at present stopping at the residence of her grandson, in this city, is 98 years of age. She is one of the few remarkable women of the revolution, who took part in the memorable occurrences of the struggle of American independence. Her husband, Gilbert Martin, was a sergeant in the army of Gates, and was engaged in the battle of Saratoga. Mrs. Martin, then a very young woman, was on the field during both struggles constituting this battle, and terminating in the defeat of the splendid army which Burgoyne had transported with such imnense labor and expense from Canada, confidently anticipating that he would be able with it to divide the army of the patriots, and secure Sir Henry Clinton in possession of the Southern line of delences.

Mrs. Martin represents the struggle as most terrific. She says that towards evening, when Burgoyne, maddened by the consciousness that all his splendid schemes were about to be defeated, directed his whole reserve and eavalry force upon the leeble army of the patriots, the contestants stood within half musket range of each other, and poured in their deadly volleys, while whole files on either ride fell in their tracks, and still neither gave one inch.

Toward evening, Mr. Martin was wounded in the shoulder, and while his wife was in the act of affixing a bandage, she herself was wounded in the hand. She says, "Gilbert sprang up like a chafed lion; "Peggy," said he, "I'll go and teach those cowardly dogs better manners than to shoot those cowardly dogs better manners than to shoot at a woman'—and I saw him no more till the fight

Of such material were the men and women of we can readily imagine that the field of Saratoga was a strange place for those of the "softer sex."

Mrs. Martin, however, has evidently been a weman of uncommon energy of character. Her frame still exhibite evidences of strength, and her eye sparkles as she recounts the deeds of that glorious day, or speaks of "that coward Gates, who stayed safe and sound all day in his tent, and cared not

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, ore offered to the public as the best and most complete shich the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of vegetable remedies, exacted by chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner, as to insure the cest results. This system of composition for medicines has been found, in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto-peen obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition every medicines burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present all the Inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence, it is said-evident the effects should be proved, as they have proved, as they have proved, as they have proved, and products of the curative effect, the said of the curative effect is present.
